DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election of claims 1-5 in the reply filed on 12/30/2005 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

> The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter, which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. See MPEP § 2173.05(c). Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claim 1 recites the broad recitation "a temperature between –6°C and –15°C and a rate between 2°C per hour and 320°C per hour", and the claim also recites "preferably between –8°C and –12°C and preferably above 10°C per hour, more preferable above 40°C per hour" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

6. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Yamane et al (EP 0,815,746) in view of Reynolds (How freezing affects Food). With regard to claim 1, Yamane et al disclose a method for preserving food in the temperature zone below icing point. A fruit was cooled to 0°C; it was then subjected to a non-freezing region of –2.2°C to –15°C, which is within applicant's recited range below the freezing point. It would be expected that this non-freezing region is under-cooling as recited by applicant because it is non-freezing. The fruit was further cooled to a super cooled state at a freezing treatment below –18°C. (Example 10, lines30-47). A cooling rate range of 0.01-0.5°C/hour is also disclosed (abstract). However, Yamane et al failed to disclose a cooling rate between 2°C/hour and 320°C/hour. It would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to utilize a higher cooling rate as instantly claimed as evidenced by Reynolds that teaches that the extent of cell wall rupture can be controlled by freezing products as quickly as possible (page 2). For example, sliced apples are prone to discoloration within minutes on exposure to air. Therefore in an industrial setting it would be expected that a higher cooling rate would be effective for preservation. "Where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235(CCPA 1955) (See MPEP 2144.05).

7. With regard to claim 2, Yamane failed to disclose the temperature difference between the core and surface of the fruit. However, it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to expect the difference to be as recited by applicant because the fruit is exposed to the same processing conditions as instantly claimed by applicant including the under-cooling temperature being within applicant's recited range.

8. With regard to claim 3, Yamane et al disclose under-cooling to –2.2 to –15.0°C below freezing point (Example 10).

9. With regard to claim 4 and 5, Yamane et al disclose fruits including pear, persimmon, apple, lemon, cherry, strawberry, fig, peach, blueberry and apricot (page 6 lines 25-41).

Conclusion

10. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Prior art discloses applicable subject matter.
